24 Pints
Of Blood
Given Gadd

BELLE GLADE — Twenty-four pints of blood from the response of 30 donors prolonged the life of a 21-year-old laborer injured in a packing-house accident Wednesday, although at OBSERVER press-time he was still on the "critical" list.

Fred Gadd, from Talcott, W. Va., was given plasma and whole blood for 12 hours after he was trapped for more than half an hour in a conveyor belt mechanism which badly injured his lower back, abdomen, and left leg.

Gadd was gulping two-pound blocks of ice onto a conveyor at Wedgworth's, Inc., which led to a portable ice tank for transportation. He was approximately three feet from the end of the second-floor conveyor when he slipped into a trough which gulped him down. "Brights," his trousers legs were caught in the conveyor sprocket as his body straddled the conveyor.

Joe Carr, a veteran employee at Wedgworth's, operating the power mechanism, witnessed the accident. He immediately turned off the power, but meanwhile the sprocket teeth had chewed out bone in the left back and severed arteries and nerves to Gadd's left leg.

Gadd reportedly kept calm during the long interval required to extricate his body from the conveyor sprocket. He looked on as T. E. Hollingsworth and fellow workers manuevered an acetylene torch to dismantle the sprocket shaft and chain to free him.

DELAY ASKED ON GAME AREA

Leland Pearce, Belle Glade cattleman, was represented at this week's County Commission meeting with a request that county action be delayed on setting aside Glades marshland abutting Lake Okechobee for public hunting and fishing.

Attorney P. C. Reese addressed the commission on behalf of Pearce, whose lands join the proposed game refuge between the Kissimmee River and Fish Eating Creek on the north end of the Lake. The Glades County Commission has approved the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission request for the refuge, but the Okechobee County Commission turned it down.

The area involved is owned by the State Internal Improvement Commission, but the cattlemen - sportsmen alliance has been sparked by doubt as to where U.S. Engineers will designate a proposed dike to be located to separate cattleland from the game area.

After hearing Reese and Robert Kleiser, West Palm Beach sportsman who spoke for hunters and anglers, the county commission voted to delay action pending further conferences with Central and South Florida Flood Control officials.

Flood Control Subcommittee
Trip Called Success By Wallis

The visit of the flood control sub-committee of the House Committee on Public Works last week was declared "a complete success," by Executive Director W. Turner Wallis of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District.

Committee members seemed favorably impressed with the flood control project and with the various harbor improvements which were inspected, he said.

The party arrived at Palm Beach International Airport last Thursday, and the following morning after a short briefing session, split into two groups, one inspecting east coast flood control works and conservation areas by air; the other group inspected harbor improvements by boat. After a combination barbecue - fish fry luncheon the party drove to Fort Lauderdale, inspecting Boca Raton and Hillsboro inlets en route.

Saturday morning a field inspection of Port Everglades and the New River canal was followed by a tour of the Chamber of Commerce, J. Abney Cox, Chairman of the Governing Board of the Flood Control District introduced the witnesses. Among those testifying before the committee was Herman Glaser of Belle Glade, speaking for Palm Beach County.

New Produce
Outlet Seen

WEST PALM BEACH — Establishment of the new commercial port of Freeport, Bahamas between now and 1958 will open up a new market for Everglades produce, was a prediction made this week at a meeting of the Optimist Club.

Capt. N. W. Sharpe, manager of the industrial development department of the Port of Palm Beach, said the accelerated development since 1947 of nearly 40,000 acres of rich Everglades farm land would make the establishment of the new Bahamas port "to Palm Beach County's advantage."

He said that Freeport would be some 60 miles directly east of the Port of Palm Beach, which is the logical export point for building materials, steel, hard goods, machinery and other items in addition to produce.

14-FOOT BOAT, completely equipped, will be given away by Palmetto American Legion at drawing to be held at Palmetto Harbor dedication May 20. Tickets are now on sale for the benefit drawing. The Legion's method of raising funds for its projects to new Palmetto City Center.

C-C PLANS FOR ANNUAL DINNER

BELLE GLADE — Plans for the annual dinner of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce were discussed at a directors' meeting Wednesday night.

Tentatively, the dinner was set for May. Directors agreed that if plans did not work out for that month, the dinner would be held next fall. Executive Secretary Edwin Young reported that more than half the membership and 1956 money quota had been received by statement.

The Florida branch of the US 441 association has authorized the expenditure of Belle Glade's annual 441 contribution locally. Mrs. Young reported. The advertising committee was assigned by President R. W. Lander to work with local representatives Ivan Van Horn and William C. Young to select signs.

A letter was written at the meeting to John W. Martin, chairman of trustees of the Florida East Coast Railway, stating that no reply had been received to an early C-C letter protesting lowering of the FEC trestle despite protests of civic groups. The letter asked what, if anything, FEC proposed to do about the matter.

With a resignation from the auto tag office in West Palm Beach for extra expense incurred in the Chamber of Commerce handling tag sales, expenses are coming out even, Mrs. Young reported. Through Mar. 16, 4,307 tags were sold for 1956, with a value of $94,723.95, she said. Tag Registrar Stetson O. Sproule has highly commended the office for its operations, she reported.

2 Superiors For
BG Girls' Chorus

BELLE GLADE — The Belle Glade high school glee club girls' chorus won a superior rating in contest in Miami held at the District 1 vocal contest held last Friday and Saturday in Miami, according to Miss Mabel Najarian, director.

In the contest on Saturday in which soloists participated, Miss Glenda Dell made superb vocal solo. These two, the girls' chorus and Miss Dell, piano soloist, are eligible to enter the state contest to be held in Tampa.

Miss Najarian said that 55 members of the local club were taken to Miami on Friday in buses, accompanied by Mrs. Forsee, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Paul Jones, and Mrs. Riley as chaperones. Howard Doolin, Dade County superintendent of elementary music education who judged the sight reading competition, commended the local group on their ability.

The mixed chorus made excellent in contest, and superior in sight reading. A boys' quartet composed of B. B. Bragg, Charles Schoenfeld, Dan Jones, and Larry Paige made excellent in their entry on Saturday. Miss Ouida Lander directed a rating of excellent for her piano solo, while Miss Alma Ann McClure received a rating of excellent for her vocal solo. Miss Molly Fries and Miss Peggy Ziemann both received a good rating.

E. A. Lindrose Enters Commiss.
Race; 3 Now In Glades Race

PAHOKEE — "Spider" Lindrose, Glades insurance agent and native Floridian, filed as candidate for the County Commission from the Glades area Wednesday just before the qualifying deadline.

Lindrose thus made the election of a commissioner from this area a race between himself, Randolph Livingston, who filed last week, and Paul Rardin, who has had the job since 1944.

Lindrose was born in Okechobee, came to Pahokee by motorboat down the Lake as an infant, is a graduate of Pahokee high school, and has been a resident of Belle Glade since 1948.

He farmed for a year after completing five years in the infantry during World War II. He was manager of the Belle Glade Elks from 1947 until a year ago. At that time he joined the staff of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S., specializing in farm and ranch loans. He became top man in the state with his company in April 1955.

Lindrose joined the Army in 1941 as a private, and emerged a captain in the infantry in 1946, with a Purple Heart and combat decorations. He fought in the Battle of the Bulge.

Lindrose is married to the former Virginia Howington, of Atlanta. The couple has three daughters and the latter two months old. Lindrose is a member of the Methodist church, and is a director of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce.

In Pahokee he was a Lion and commander of the VFW. His Belle Glade affiliations include the Elks, Country Club, and American Legion. Lindrose is on the Belle Glade youth activities committee and has been active in the drive for funds for the new municipal swimming pool.

Glades Now
'Tinderbox'
Bender Says

BY PAUL DINNIN

With the Glades experiencing the worst drought since 1943, the entire area is a tinderbox which could easily flare up into a Gladeswide fire, Chief Guy J. Bender of the Everglades Fire Control District, told OBSERVER yesterday.

Evidence of the immensity of at least one major fire was the heavy pall of smoke which blocked out sunshine in Cunal Point, Pahokee and Belle Glade yesterday.

A fire yesterday was a 24-square-mile area three miles north of Connors Hwy. and five miles east of Lake Okechobee, along the south side of Levee 8. This fire has consumed saw grass and weedy growth in wild land, although it is understood that some of the muck has been damaged by it, Bender said.

The fire "has been eddying around for three or four days," according to the chief. It is not a muck fire, although the top crust of muck has been consumed. He said that although water is down 2 1/2 feet in ditches, capillary action in that particular area has provided enough moisture to prevent destructive muck burning.

At OBSERVER press-time, U.S. Sugar Corporation hands were at work taking preventive action to keep the fire from spreading to its lands, as it crept toward the company dikes.

Noting that weathermen were forecasting showers for South Florida, Chief Bender predicted a good shower would extinguish the fire. (Continued on Page 8)

FEELINGS HURT? The "Southern Manifesto" has set off a tiny bombshell in the Florida Delegation. Congressman Bill Cramer, lone Republican member, said that he had not been invited to sign it. "My name was specifically excluded from the Florida Delegation list as circulated by the ranking Member, for obvious political reasons," Cramer said. The "Ranking Member," Congressman "he-con" Sikes, topped that one by accusing Cramer of showing his "inexperience and bad temper" by making such a statement. "On the contrary," Sikes said, "Representative Howard Smith (D-Va.) had informed me at the time that signatures were being collected and invited them to sign the declaration." And Congressman Syd Herlong, stalwart of Florida's 5th District who was a member of the committee that drafted the manifesto, says that he personally talked to Cramer and invited and advised him to sign the document.

FARMERS IN POLITICS: Don't underestimate the influence of the farmer in American politics. When the farm bill was being debated in the Senate, plenty of farmers were in the galleries listening to what was being said, and more important, who said it. From Florida, came a delegation of members of the Florida Farm Bureau.

MORE ON ADLAI-ESTES FIGHT: Florida is still the key to the South in the fight between Stevenson and Kefauver.

Although segregation is not the chief issue in the race, it is bound to affect the voting. And when Kefauver refused to sign the "Southern Manifesto" in the Senate last week, Southern members of Congress generally agreed that it would make it harder for him in the Florida race. Although this will be the third meeting of the two men this year, it will mark the first true test of their strength based on some sort of issue. Elsewhere we have seen nothing but popularity contests. Of course, Stevenson's cause isn't hurt any by having one of the strongest states of the South ever assembled—a state which includes two former governors. And by having Congressman Bob Sikes mastermind the race.

While most voters in Florida will be watching the big show in the main tent on May 23, when Fuller and Leroy battle it out, don't fail to look in on the people of Florida, but it will be the center of political attention on that day for the rest of the United States.

Well, the truth is out.

A field of racing greyhounds finally caught up with the track's mechanical rabbit, I read.

This led to an ugly scene of destruction, with the hounds ripping the rabbit to shreds.

The writer of the account seemed worried about the effect it would have on the psyches of the hounds, to find that the rabbit they'd been chasing all that time was a thing of cloth and metal.

Well, as an old rat-catcher, I can see that maybe those hounds were a little upset at first—but then, about fur is messy. And there's always the danger of tularemia.

My own encyclopedia tells me that greyhound is a pretty intelligent animal. That answered one of my questions. I admit many dogs have to work for a living. Some write columns instead of chasing mechanical rabbits.

Having been pretty insulted when on several occasions I have heard the bosses refer to some decrepit track "going to the dogs," I also have been pacified when they would announce peacefully now and then "We're going to the dogs tonight."

Of course, I still don't see why they're usually grouchy the morning following a trip to the greyhound track.

But back on the track (I scratched around to find out just why greyhounds have been used to chase mechanical rabbits. Found out.

For a couple of hundred years now, the greyhound has been used in England for "coursing," in which the quarry—usually a hare (or rabbit)—is started from a hiding place and pursued by greyhounds by sight rather than scent.

In more recent years the dogs have been used as racers, in England and the U.S. and chase an electrically-propelled fake hare around the track.

Seems some sort of justice that one set of dogs finally caught the fake.

Unlike the greyhounds, I don't think I'm splitting hairs to say this:

Rats Run By Zinc Phosphide

FT. LAUDERDALE — Rat control with zinc phosphide was successful in recent demonstrations in Broward County, says Assistant County Agent Wayne Collier. The poison reduced the rat population to the extent that pepper crops following zinc phosphide application showed little rodent damage. The zinc compound was an effective bird repellent, the agent said.

Lake At 10-Year Low As Pumping Tests Planned

The Jacksonville district office, Corps of Engineers, announced this week that Lake Okechobee has reached its lowest stage in 10 years. They also point to the necessity of running operation tests at Pumping Station 5A on West Palm Beach Canal in the next few weeks to insure proper pump operation in the event of a major storm this fall.

On Mar. 13, the water surface in Lake Okechobee was 12.2 feet above mean sea level, according to L. A. Farrer, chief of the lake regulations section. This is the lowest level it has reached since the dry period in the forties when it dropped to 11.6 feet.

The low stage has caused some curtailment of navigation in the Okechobee Waterway and has reduced the water supply available for use in the agricultural area around the lake.

This unusually low stage was caused by rainfall and runoff from the Okechobee watershed being far below normal for the past year. Average rainfall over the area during 1955 was about 35 inches, or 15 inches below the normal. In wet years, such as 1947 and 1953, the rainfall was about 70 inches or twice the amount measured in 1955.

Farrer said that the water surface in Lake Okechobee has dropped about 1.4 feet during the last six months. Releases made to supply water to agricultural interests near the lake and in coastal areas and for other incidental purposes have lowered the lake less than a foot. Evaporation losses from the lake during this period were about 23 inches; rainfall and inflow from the 5000 square-mile drainage area were less than the evaporation losses and Lake Okechobee would have dropped about half-a-foot even if no releases had been made. During a year with normal inflow and rainfall, the lake would have risen about 2.5 feet during the six-month period if no releases were made.

Forecasts by the Corps of Engineers show that with normal rainfall during the next three months the lake surface will drop another half-foot. Army Engineers have also stated that some water must be discharged to the Everglades water conservation area during the next few weeks at Pumping Station 5A on West Palm Beach Canal. Pumping to remove water from Lake Okechobee and the agricultural area near the lake during the present drought season would not be affected except that recently installed new pump bearings must be tested.

The original pump bearings showed deterioration after installation due to minor metallurgical defects. Corrective measures and new bearings have been installed by the manufacturer which must be tested before expiration of the guarantee period. As a water conservation measure, only one of the six pumps in the station will be given an actual operating test.

BEAN YIELD REDUCED
BY DEEPER TILLAGE

GAINESVILLE—Bean yields were cut in half by tillage that penetrated three inches during the growing season, Florida Agricultural Experiment Station tests show.

Plants cultivated with a blade-type seeder produced 298 bushels of beans per acre and deep-cultivated plants produced 149 bushels per acre. Bean plants that suffered root damage appeared normal in leaf color and size.

SS Tax Applies To Puerto Ricans

The Internal Revenue Service said this week that considerable confusion appears to exist as to whether or not Puerto Rican farm workers are subject to social security taxes. The Revenue Service issued the following statement in order to clear the situation.

For social security tax purposes, an individual who is a citizen of Puerto Rico is considered a citizen of the United States.

A Puerto Rican farm worker is subject to social security tax if he receives $100 or more cash wages for agricultural labor from any one employer during the calendar year.

The social security taxes apply to cash wages of $100 or more paid by each employer in a calendar year to an employee for agricultural labor. The tax is four percent of taxable wages paid (2 percent employee tax and 2 percent employer tax).

Any employer who paid cash wages of $100 or more during such a calendar year to a Puerto Rican employee for agricultural labor should have reported and paid the tax on such employee's wages to the Federal Internal Revenue Service at once.

BY SCHATZI

Well, the truth is out. A field of racing greyhounds finally caught up with the track's mechanical rabbit, I read.

This led to an ugly scene of destruction, with the hounds ripping the rabbit to shreds. The writer of the account seemed worried about the effect it would have on the psyches of the hounds, to find that the rabbit they'd been chasing all that time was a thing of cloth and metal.

Well, as an old rat-catcher, I can see that maybe those hounds were a little upset at first—but then real rabbit fur is so messy. And there's always the danger of tinea.

Now my encyclopedia tells me that greyhound is a pretty intelligent animal. To answer one of my questions, I admit many dogs have to work for a living. Some write columns instead of chasing mechanical rabbits.

Having been pretty insulted when on several occasions I've heard the boss refer to some decrepit thing as "going to the dogs," I also have been pained when they would announce that they're usually roughly the morning following a trip to the greyhound track.

But back on the track (I) scratch the anus to find out just why greyhounds ever started to chase mechanical rabbits. Found out.

For a couple of hundred years now, the greyhound has been used in England for "coursing," in which the quarry—usually a hare (or rabbit)—is started from a hiding place and pursued by greyhounds by sight rather than scent.

In more recent years the dogs have been used as racers, in England and the U.S., and chase an electrically-propelled fake hare around the track.

Seems some sort of justice that one set of dogs finally caught up with another. Unlike the greyhounds, I don't think I'm splitting hairs to say that.

Rats Run By Zinc Phosphide

FT. LAUDERDALE — Rat control with zinc phosphide was demonstrated in Broward County, says Assistant County Agent Wayne Collier. The poison reduced the rat population to the extent that pepper crops following zinc phosphide application showed little rodent damage. The zinc compound was an effective bird repellent, the agent said.

Lake At 10-Year Low As Pumping Tests Planned

The Jacksonville district office, Corps of Engineers, announced this week that Lake Okechobee has reached its lowest stage in 10 years. They also point to the necessity of running operation tests at Pumping Station 5A on West Palm Beach Canal in the next few weeks to insure proper pump operation in the event of a major storm this fall.

On Mar. 13, the water surface in Lake Okechobee was 12.2 feet above mean sea level, according to L. A. Farrer, chief of the lake regulations section. This is the lowest level it has reached since the dry period in the forties when it dropped to 11.6 feet.

The low stage has caused some curtailment of navigation in the Okechobee Waterway and has reduced the water supply available for use in the agricultural area around the lake.

This unusually low stage was caused by rainfall of 1.47 inches during the past year. Average rainfall over the area during 1955 was about 35 inches, or 15 inches below the normal. In wet years, such as 1947 and 1953, the rainfall was about 70 inches or twice the amount measured in 1955.

Farrer said that the water surface in Lake Okechobee has dropped about 1.4 feet during the last six months. Releases made to supply water to agricultural interests near the lake and in coastal areas and for other incidental purposes have lowered the lake less than a foot. Evaporation losses from the lake during this period were about 23 inches; rainfall and inflow from the 5000 square-mile drainage area were less than the evaporation losses and Lake Okechobee would have dropped about half-a-foot even if no release had been made. During a year with normal inflow and rainfall, the lake would have risen about 2.5 feet during the six-month period if no releases were made.

Forecasts by the Corps of Engineers show that with normal rainfall during the next three months the lake surface will drop another half-foot.

Army Engineers have also stated that some water may be discharged to the Everglades water conservation area during the next few weeks at Pumping Station 5A on West Palm Beach Canal. Pumping to remove water from Lake Okechobee and the agricultural area near the lake during the present drought season would not be affected except that recently installed new pump bearings must be tested.

The original pump bearings showed deterioration after installation due to minor metalurgical defects. Corrective measures and new bearings have been installed by the manufacturer which must be tested before expiration of the guarantee period. As a water conservation measure, only one of the six pumps in the station will be given an actual operating test.

BEAN YIELD REDUCED BY DEEPER TILLAGE

GAINESVILLE — Bean yields were cut in half by tillage that penetrated three inches during the growing season, Florida Agricultural Experiment Station tests show.

Plants cultivated with a blade-type scraper produced 296 bushels of beans per acre and deep-oxidized plants produced 149 bushels per acre. Bean plants that suffered root damage appeared normal in leaf color and size.

A Passover Prayer

O Lord our God, and God of our fathers, we greet this festival of freedom with joyful hearts. As Thou didst redeem our fathers from the slavery of Egypt and didst lead them to the land of their inheritance, so hast Thou been our Saviour and God-father, through all the centuries. We thank Thee, O God, our redeemer, that our lot has fallen in this blessed land, dedicated to Liberty and Peace. May we be imbued with a deep sense of our duty as free men, and may we gather in our homes in happy family reunion, may we be mindful of those who still dwell in the house of bondage and eat the bread of affliction. O that the good tidings of redemption may soon be heard in every land. May those who hunger after freedom and justice be satisfied, and may all mankind be blessed with the joys of brotherhood and peace. Praises be Thine, O Lord our God, Ruler of the world who has granted us life, sustained us, and permitted us to celebrate this joyous festival.

Before winning the Battle of Waterloo in 1815, Wellington drank cup after cup of tea, telling his generals that tea cleared his head and relieved him of nervous tensions.

American servicemen today drink more than 10 million gallons of tea with their meals every year.

To relieve modern conditions of stress, Dr. Alfred H. Lawton, U. S. Air Force Medical Research advisor, says "Tea is a good agent for the relief of fatigue as has yet been an immediate lift, without a let-down, and facilitates mental and muscular efforts."

The chief urged all Glades people to be especially careful with disposal of cigarettes and handling of open fires. These steps will help fire prevention, he said:

1. Urgent warning passed along to migrant laborers by employers and foremen;
2. Words of warning passed along to tourists by service station attendants and motel operators;
3. Constant vigilance by everyone.

It is vitally important that the Fire Station be notified of any fires immediately. Persons spotting fires are to either call the fire station at WY-662870 or WYman 6-2501, or by notifying state or local police.

Bender said.

A large fire along US 27 in Broward County has been prevented from reaching into the Glades by the Everglades firemen running a fire guard 60 feet wide and 13 miles long along the Atlantic Coast Line railroad tracks.

Chief Bender noted the outside aid the Fire Control District, which headquarters in Belle Glade, receives. Pilots of Eastern and National Airlines and other Miami immediately report any new configurations they note while flying over the extensive Glades area, and crop dusters give almost daily reports of fires.

Bender believes the Canal Port fire may have started because of the carelessness of some one fishing along levee 8, who perhaps did not completely

NEEDED: BLOOD BANK

Fred Gadd's accident (see next column) has pointed up the absolute necessity for the existence of a "walking blood bank," one doctor informed OBSERVER yesterday. He viewed it as something of a wonder that blood donations of the proper type were obtained quickly enough for Gadd, who was given 24 pints.

Normally, Belle Glade Memorial Hospital has two or three pints of blood on hand for emergencies, the doctor explained.

What is needed, however, is a future emergency as to be met is a long list on file at Glades hospitals of persons willing, and able to be called upon for donation of blood as required. Volunteer donors are classified as to blood type, the doctor said. He added the hope that civic clubs in the various Glades communities would take the initiative of organizing the "walking blood banks."

PAHOKEE BPW VISITED BY STATE PRESIDENT

The state president of the Florida Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Mrs. Mimi Southwick, paid a surprise visit to the club meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Simmon.

With Miss Julia Mathis as co-hostess for the program meeting, members heard Col. E. Altman, director of Civil Defense for Palm Beach County, as principal speaker. He showed a film on evacuation of civilians after attack. Guests included Dean C. Southwick, Mrs. H. M. McIntosh and Mrs. J. H. Hlywa.

ance to Belle Glade Memorial Hospital, where he was immediately given blood transfusions. An urgent appeal for blood donations met with heroic contributions.

Speedy efforts marked handling of the Gadd accident through the offices of the supervisor of Hollingsworth, chief engineer at Wedgworth Produce. A doctor arrived on the scene in about 10 minutes. Time under police escort provided by Lee Suggs, Belle Glade police patrolman at the scene in about 10 minutes. Mrs. Adele Leffingwell, Police Chief Charles Goodlett, and Radio Station WSWN. Approximately 30 donors each gave a pint of blood, beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Gadd's 18-year old wife was also working at Wedgworth's, one floor below the scene of the accident. Since workers were barred from the accident area, she was unaware of her husband's accident until he was en route to the hospital.

Wedgworth officials viewed the accident as the "unavoidable" variety since all safety precautions were being observed, according to N. T. Taylor. He noted that the three-foot interval separating Gadd from the sprocket when he slipped meant that there was simply no time for him to slip.

Taylor said, he likely would have been able to pull himself from the conveyor belt.

One Discovery Leads to Another

For centuries man has suffered from arthritis. The Romans fought the disease with special baths. Other ancients practiced fads and witchcraft. At long last, Mayo Clinic chemist Edward C. Kendall discovered Cortisone — bringing blessed relief to millions of arthritics.

Just recently, a team of seven scientists discovered Melieton, drug with five times the anti-rheumatic potency of Cortisone. As word of Melieton's effectiveness spread, the medical world began to hail the new drug.

Now to see if Melieton could be used to treat a host of other rheumatic ailments — such as rheumatoid arthritis, stiff neck, lumbago and just plain "rheumatism." These ailments are especially common in rural and suburban areas.

Successful! At the research laboratories of a leading pharmaceutical company, the discoverers of Melieton found that small amounts of the new drug could be combined with aspirin and Vitamin C to form a super-effective Sigmamex — milder than powerful Melieton alone, yet potent enough to help the millions who suffer from rheumatic ailments.

Like Cortisone and Melieton, Sigmamex became available by prescription as soon as its remarkable effectiveness was established. The first effect of Sigmamex doctors now find, is relief from aching, stiffness and pain on motion. Next, increasing motion becomes possible. A general increase in the feeling of well-being is observed by most patients.

The effect is so rapid, Dr. Tom D. Spies reports in the Journal of the American Medical Association, that patients "usually feel better within 24 hours."

In the years ahead, millions of people will find freedom from their distressing rheumatic ailments — thanks to a super-effective Sigmamex — milder than powerful
